

Here we go again.

Today's lesson will require you to split into two groups.

Each group will have a listening (a podcast that will be assigned after you get in your groups), of around 30 minutes long. As you listen, take notes and write down any words that you don't know (to be sent to me). After each member has finished the listening, the group comes together in their channel to discuss what they heard. The group will collectively prepare a presentation of the listening to the other group.

The presentation will take place in a dedicated audio channel, and should last no more than 10 minutes. You will have about five minutes for questions from the other group following the presentation.

I am aware that these are difficult podcasts, but please try and listen to them straight through, no pausing or going back. As it will greatly affect our ability to work together on this. Work wisely and work well.
