Exercise 1

Chronodrive is a shopping site that allows you to shop online and come to the store to have your goods directly. There are two options on the store's terminal screen: "On-Site Order" or "Goods Withdrawal". To withdraw the goods, it is mandatory to enter the customer code and proceed to the payment if it has not been done yet on the site.

Model the offered services of the automatic terminal via a use case diagram.

Exercise 2

Model your last year project with different use case diagrams, depending on the abstraction level.
